Education into the Future

Education sponsorships by Bantu e.V. in Uganda: helping children and young people enter education, continue learning and pursue their ambitions.

If you grew up knowing that you would go to school, take a moment to consider what that certainty made possible.

You could develop interests, gain qualifications and imagine a future beyond your immediate circumstances. Perhaps your family made considerable sacrifices. Perhaps public services, scholarships or other people's support helped you along the way.

For many children, that certainty is still missing. A family may value education deeply and still be unable to afford the next school term. A deaf child may have a school nearby but no access to teaching in a language they understand. A girl may struggle to attend because she lacks menstrual products, water or a private, accessible toilet. A young person who becomes a parent may face childcare responsibilities, financial hardship and exclusion from school.

These barriers can interrupt an education before a learner has had a fair opportunity to begin.

Bantu e.V., together with Anchored Bridges Initiatives (ABI) and education partners in Uganda, is working to make that opportunity possible. We invite you to help.

A real opportunity to participate

A school place becomes meaningful when a learner can reach it, afford to attend, communicate, participate and continue learning safely. Financial support must work alongside disability accessibility, appropriate teaching, personal safety and support for the circumstances that affect attendance.

What is preventing this learner from accessing education - and what support would help remove that barrier?

One learner may need tuition support. Another may also need transport, boarding, accessible materials or communication support. A learner returning after pregnancy or early parenthood may need a different combination of assistance. Working with local partners, families and learners helps us direct support where it can make a practical contribution.

Support through important education stages

Our sponsorship programme connects support at several stages, from early childhood to secondary education and vocational training. It aims to help learners enter education and navigate the transitions at which financial and other barriers can interrupt their progress.

An early start at Pearl Kindergarten Kampala

Through Pearl Kindergarten Kampala, we support access to early learning for children from low-income families. Sponsorship can help sustain fee-free places for families unable to contribute, alongside learning materials, meals and appropriate support. It can also protect access beyond an initial funded period, when even modest fees may remain unaffordable.

Accessible learning for deaf children and children with disabilities

Through the Rwera Unit for the Deaf and the Uganda School for the Deaf, sponsorship can help meet the costs of education, boarding where appropriate, and individual learning support. Participation requires accessible communication, suitable teaching, learning materials and a safe environment. Support should respond to the learner's needs and involve their family or caregivers.

Continuity through secondary school

Moving from primary to secondary education can bring costs that families cannot meet. Royal College Namugongo has offered a 30% tuition reduction for eligible sponsored learners. Our fundraising seeks to cover the remaining 70% of tuition, together with other agreed education costs. The school contributes through reduced tuition while sponsors help close the remaining gap.

Further learning and professional skills

For older learners, the programme includes pathways into technical training, nursing and midwifery. The partnerships described for this programme include Entebbe Atuwanguza Memorial School and Lyantonde School of Nursing and Midwifery, building on their offered 30% partial scholarships under agreed terms. Technical training options include Nakawa Vocational Training College. These pathways can help young people gain recognised skills and pursue work, further study and greater independence.

Partner contributions, eligibility and available places must be confirmed for each support plan. A tuition reduction does not automatically cover meals, transport, boarding or other charges.

Addressing barriers beyond tuition

We want to strengthen the programme's capacity to respond to the circumstances that keep learners away from education. Funding priorities include:

- The full cost of participation: essential materials, examination fees, transport, meals or boarding, according to assessed need.
- Disability accessibility: communication support, accessible materials and practical adjustments that enable participation.
- Menstrual health and dignity: appropriate products, information and access to safe, private and accessible sanitation.
- Continuation and return to education: support for pregnant learners and young parents, developed with local partners and responsive to childcare and other responsibilities.
- Continuity during hardship: timely assistance when an unexpected financial difficulty puts an existing education at risk.

How a sponsorship works

You choose an amount and a rhythm: 25, 40 or 70 EUR per payment, monthly, quarterly, annually or as a one-off gift, or an amount of your own. As a guide, 25 EUR a month supports a place in early childhood or primary and accessible education, 40 EUR a month a secondary school place and 70 EUR a month a vocational, nursing or midwifery place. Actual costs differ between learners and institutions and are confirmed for each support plan.

You can state a preferred education stage or let us direct your contribution to where it is needed most. Bantu e.V. is a registered charity; you receive a donation receipt for the German tax authorities. Contributions are pooled for each stage so that a learner's place does not depend on a single payment arriving on time.

How learners are selected and accompanied

Anchored Bridges Initiatives (ABI) and the partner schools propose learners whose education is at risk for financial, disability-related or social reasons. Priority is given to children with disabilities, girls, pregnant learners and young parents, and families without a regular income. ABI assesses each proposal together with the learner and the family and records what is needed beyond tuition.

Bantu e.V. and ABI decide together on each support plan. Plans are reviewed before every school year and adjusted when a learner's circumstances change, so that an interruption does not end the education.

Responsibilities and payments

Bantu e.V. receives contributions in Germany, issues donation receipts and keeps the programme accounts. ABI coordinates with the schools and families in Uganda, checks invoices and confirms attendance. Fees are paid against invoices from the institution, and every payment is documented with receipts, as in our funded projects. Bantu e.V. and ABI have worked together since 2021.

What we have already achieved with our partners

- Royal College and Royal Junior Namugongo: with funds raised by pupils of the Wilhelm-Remy-Gymnasium Bendorf (Aktion Tagwerk 2017), ABI covered the school fees of six pupils and built access ramps. All six completed primary school and moved on to secondary school.
- Msingi School, Mbarara (P 24/200, 2024/25): 18 young women completed a 24-week hairdressing and cosmetology training; all 18 passed their final examinations and seven were hired straight away by their placement salons.
- Ruhaama Community Resource Centre (P 21/23, P 22/29): 225 people took IT courses, 175 of them with a certificate, and 350 pupils received tutoring.
- Pearl Kindergarten Kampala (P 26/230): since October 2026 we have been setting up a Montessori kindergarten in Namuwongo with ABI, funded by Stiftung Nord-Süd-Brücken with funds from the BMZ. Sponsorships will sustain fee-free places once the funded start-up phase ends.

Reporting, privacy and protection

Sponsors receive a written update on the programme and the stage they support at least once a year, with figures on attendance, continuation and expenditure. Bantu e.V. publishes an annual report and a transparency report every year and is a member of the Transparent Civil Society Initiative.

Learners' names, stories and photographs are shared only with informed consent, and children are never shown identifiably without their parents' consent. Personal data is used solely to administer the support. Questions and complaints can be addressed to info@bantu-ev.org at any time.

Partner contributions

Royal College Namugongo has offered a 30% tuition reduction for eligible sponsored learners; Entebbe Atuwanguza Memorial School and the Lyantonde School of Nursing and Midwifery have offered partial scholarships of 30% on their respective terms; the Nakawa Vocational Training College offers technical training places. Each contribution, its duration and conditions are confirmed in writing before a support plan starts. A tuition reduction does not cover boarding, meals, transport or examination fees.

An invitation to people with the capacity to give

If education helped you build the life you have today, you understand its lasting value. You can take on a regular sponsorship, fund an agreed period of education, or discuss a larger commitment for several learners or an accessibility priority. Every arrangement protects learners' dignity, privacy and voice. Our work contributes to Sustainable Development Goal 4.

Help make the next school term possible. Help a learner continue. Help a young person take the next step towards the future they choose.
